Column 1 (House number).—Enter the Census number printed on the house. If the house is empty, write 'empty' after the number, and leave one line blank. If two find a house without a number, you will enumerate the inhabitants and report the fact in the Remarks.

Column 2 (Serial number).—This column is not to be filled up until after the final enumeration. You will then enter a serial number for all persons enumerated in the book.

Column 3 (Name).—Enter first the name of the chief resident member of the family, whether male or female; then those of the other members of the family add their resident status, if any. If there is any objection made to giving the name of a female write the word 'female' (adding her relationship to some member of the family) and fill up the rest of the column for her as usual. If an infant has not yet been named, enter the word 'infant.' If any female is unwilling to give her own or her husband's name, you must ask some one else for the information. When you have entered all the persons in a house, you will leave one space blank before making the entries for the next house.

II.—PROCEEDINGS.

A.—The First Round (Preliminary Examination).

1. As soon as you receive the book obtain from the Supervisor of your circle the list of the holdings in your block and from that fill up completely the "black list" attached at the end of the book.

2. Fill up also the headings of the black list and of all the pages in the book, and enter the particulars of the book in the form on the left of the previous page of the cover. Your Supervisor will show you how to do this.

3. Next, beginning on the 1st of February in villages and on the 15th February in towns, you will visit every house in your block to which a separate number has been affixed, in the order in which the houses are entered in your block list, and fill up the columns in the schedule for all persons who ordinarily live in or take their meals from the house. Even if they are temporarily absent, each person should be entered, if they will be back by the 15th March. Visitors should not be entered if they will have left before that date.

4. You must carefully study the instructions given above for filling in the columns of the schedule and also the specimens schedules on the cover of this book which contains a number of entries illustrating the rules. You should consult your Supervisor whenever you are in doubt as to the proper entry.

5. If directed to do so by your Supervisor, you will make a rough draft on plain paper and you will not copy it in your book until it has been passed by him. When so copying them, remember that after you have written down all the entries relating to any house, you should leave one space blank before making the entries for the next house.

6. If the entry for any person in any of the columns of the schedule be the same as that for the person entered on the line above, you must repeat the entry. You must not write the word "ditto" or make dots.

7. You must have completed all the entries in your book by the 20th February in the villages and 3rd March in towns.

B.—The Second Round (Final Examination).

8. On the evening of the 15th March, at the time of lighting lamps, you will take this book as already filled in and again visit every house in your block in order. You must see that you are yourself accompanied in the house when you are sleeping.

9. At each house, you must summon the chief member of each family and read over to him one by one the names of his household entered in the schedule, asking him, as you read each name, whether the person is present in the house or not. You must also ask him particularly whether any fresh persons have come or any child has been born. You must strike out all the entries for persons who are not present, and fill up the form for any person now in the house who was not there when the first visit was made, such as guests, infants newly born, and others. You are to consider as present all persons living in or taking their meals from the house, even though any of them may be out fishing or working in the fields or employed on any out-door occupation or duty.

10. The book entries mentioned in the last rule must be made on the blank pages at the end of your book. In each row you will enter the number of the house to which the fresh entries relate, writing under it the word "corrected."

11. You must make no alteration whatever in any entry against the name of any person unless you have to strike out the entire altogether, because he or she is no longer present. When you strike out a person, you must draw a line completely through all the entries following that person's name, and not merely through column 3.

12. Whilst going on the second round, you must visit every house marked "empty" in your book to see whether any person is then living there. If any persons are living there, you should enter them there.

13. You must also go to the churches, chattras, encampments and landing places, where travellers rest for the night, and enter all particulars in the schedule for the wayfarers, hermits, pilgrims and others you may find there, and strike out the entries already made against persons who are not then present. You should ascertain from the village headman whether any members of a wandering tribe have come to your block. If so, you must go and enumerate them in the manner prescribed above.

14. If any European or Anglo-Indian household in your block has been given a household schedule, you must collect it on the evening of the 15th March, and after seeing that columns have been duly filled in according to the rules, you must stick it into your book. Rest to the last schedule filled up by you.

15. When you have enumerated all the persons in your block, and not until then, you must fill in the serial numbers for them in column 2 of all the schedules.

16. You will then (on the morning of the 16th March) go without any delay to the place appointed by your Supervisor, and after your book has been inspected by him, you will make in the abstract printed on the inside of the cover, the number of houses and persons, male and female, in your block. When you have done this correctly, the Supervisor will take charge of your book and your duties will be finished.

17. According to the Census Act, every person is legally bound to furnish you with such information as is necessary for filling up the schedule, but you are forbidden to ask for any information not required for the purposes of the return, or for tribute, or for payment of any person's money, or to disclose to any unauthorized person any information given. Any person who exacts money on any pretext connected with the census incurs himself liable to punishment under the Census Act or the Penal Code. Entries in this schedule are confidential and cannot be used hereafter in any legal proceedings in the civil courts.
